

FACES OF LODO

NIKKI AND JEB TODD

VISIONS WEST GALLERY

Nikki and Jeb Todd were looking for an ideal location to open their third Visions West Gallery, and LoDo won! Their other top choices were Miami, LA, and they even had money down on a gallery space in Manhattan. But articles about Denver kept showing up in the press: they read about Denver's expanding art and art museum scene in the New York Times, Art News, Dwell Magazine, and others. It didn't hurt that Jeb was a Denver schoolmate of Duke Beardsley, the artist currently featured at Visions West Galleries (through November 11) in a one-man show.

Luckily for LoDo, Nikki and Jeb found an ideal space at 1715 Wazee St. to make their Denver splash. The space was carved up into office cubicles, so they pulled out the sledge hammers and opened it up as a space perfect for viewing art. This LoDo gallery joins similar spaces in Bozeman, MT and Livingston, MT as the Visions West Galleries. Collectively, they represent a remarkably diverse group of artists from the western region.

Visions West Gallery is perfectly situated within the active art scene on Wazee Street, along with longtime LoDo galleries William Mathews, David Cook Galleries, and The Robischon Gallery. The location also compliments the Center for Visual Arts across the street, and fits perfectly into our pedestrian-friendly LoDo neighborhood.

Be sure to stop by and enjoy paintings and sculpture ranging from their unique stable of artists. And mark your calendars for the upcoming Holiday Show featuring two bronze artists from Sante Fe. One features dogs and the other features horses, so you could correctly assume the show will be titled the "Dog and Pony Show." The show will also feature all the Visions West Galleries artists, and will have plenty of fun and nicely priced holiday gift ideas.

Please visit Visions West Galleries at 1715 Wazee Street and welcome them to LoDo, or visit online at www.visionswestgallery.com. Their phone number is 303-292-0909.

GET TO KNOW NIKKI AND JEB TODD AND OTHER FACES OF LODO. CALL 303-628-5428 FOR MEMBERSHIP INFORMATION.